Advising

LCCC practices Holistic Advising. This means that we recognize that your success in school is dependent on more than just your courses. Your entire life affects your academic career. Your advisors will work with you throughout your career at the College, not only during registration periods.

Advisors introduce students to academic policies and processes, provide students a venue for asking questions and seeking information, assist students with understanding programs of study, and connect students to resources. Advisors also can assist students with the transfer process, and with major and career exploration.

Advisors are available at both the main campus in Cheyenne and at the Albany County Campus. Students will be partnered with advisors at whichever campus they identify as their home location.

We expect students to actively participate in the advising process throughout their time at LCCC. This is your experience and these are your choices and decisions to make. We are here to help you make it the best experience it can be!
